

Fadel Partners Leading the Way with Intellectual Property Management Software

NEW YORK, Dec. 8 2009 /PRNewswire/ -- Fadel Partners, Inc. has announced the release of version 3.2.2 of their IPM suite. The suite, a leading enterprise Intellectual Property Management system, represents the culmination of analyzing industry requirements, utilizing in house expertise and tapping business leaders' opinions on where the industry is headed. The latest release enhances functionality in both the contract management and royalty management modules. Release 3.2.2 of the IPM Suite provides enhanced system performance, an improved user experience and new business intelligence capabilities allowing companies to fully exploit their intellectual property rights.

The IPM suite facilitates contractual rights management, royalty processing and participation management through the integration of rights configurations, royalty rates, rule processing and participations calculations. Rights Management provides powerful configuration capabilities, collision checking, automated versioning and approvals. Royalty management provides real-time data validation and calculations to help maintain accuracy of royalties being reported and accounted for. Participations Management marries contractual obligations, with sales data and other financial considerations to calculate and process outbound royalties and other payouts.

Tarek E. Fadel, founder and CEO of Fadel Partners, Inc. adds, "We're very proud to offer such a versatile and comprehensive enterprise solution. We're happy to have customers across different industries utilizing the robust flexibility and configurability of the system. With today's rapidly changing IP distribution models, our customers are constantly seeking new ways to exploit their assets. Our latest release of the IPM Suite represents the culmination of years of effort gathering industry requirements and designing a configurable and extensible enterprise system that meets today's demanding intellectual property management needs."

Release 3.2.2 improves on a number of key business processes such as better management of contract related dates, support for multiple royalty upload template formats, improved deal comparison features and enterprise class business intelligence and reporting capabilities. These features provide solutions for specific issues reported by industry users and represent Fadel's continued commitment to building an enterprise class product that makes IP management easier for all of our clients.
